Lakeside Primary School celebrated its 50th anniversary in January. The school, which was first opened by the Lord Mayor of Cardiff in January 1963 held a number of events to mark this special occasion, including a visit from the police helicopter which captured aerial shots of the school and pupils, which will be displayed in the school for the next 50 years.

Welsh Government reverses Council tax decision

THOUSANDS of Cardiff residents who were set to pay more Council tax as a result of the Government's Welfare Reform programme will no longer face the extra charge if Welsh Government plans go ahead.

From this April changes are being made to a whole raft of welfare benefits. One of the most controversial proposals is the plan to abolish Council tax benefit and replace it with local council tax reduction schemes.

Under this plan everyone in Cardiff was set to pay at least 10 per cent towards their council tax bills from April, even if they pay nothing at the moment.

However while Council Tax Reduction Scheme is still going ahead the Welsh Government has announced that it has found £22m to ensure the cut will not happen when the next financial year starts in April. This means that people who were entitled to full benefit will continue to get it.

It had been estimated that around 35,000 households in Cardiff would have had to pay more Council tax if the 10 per cent cut had been implemented.

While a small number of people will still be worse off under the new Council Tax Reduction scheme, including those currently claiming second adult rebate, most will now continue to receive the same amount of help as at present.

Councillor Lynda Thorne, Cabinet member for Communities, Housing and Social Justice, said: "While it is good news that people who were entitled to full council tax benefit will continue to get it, it is very important for people to realise that Welfare Reform is still happening.

"Unfortunately Cardiff Council has no control over any of the changes so we need to do everything we can to make sure people are ready and prepared. It is very important that people understand these changes are coming in April and as a Council we will do everything we possibly can to help and support those affected."

A day in a life

The latest in a regular series looking at jobs carried out by council employees. This month Tom Harris, Customer Service Representative at Connect 2 Cardiff, talks to Capital Times.

I work in the multi award winning Cardiff Council contact centre, Connect 2 Cardiff (C2C). We handle a large amount of enquires from residents concerning all Council departments.

We offer advice and support on a whole host of Council services including council tax, housing benefits, housing repairs, waste management and many more. We do also take a number of general calls about the city. On average I can take up to 60 to 100 calls a day.

The public can contact us via telephone, email, text messages, webchat and post.

Once I take an enquiry, it's my responsibility to make sure the person's question is answered and if further action is needed to organise this. This involves me contacting the relevant department to arrange the request with them. This can be as simple as advising residents what can go in a green recycling bag to negotiating a council tax recovery agreement.

Our busiest services are Waste Management and Council Tax. I deal with lots of enquires about bin collection, with people asking what day their bin will be collected etc. This particularly spikes when there has been a bank holiday. The time of year can really affect what calls we get. During Christmas time Winter Wonderland is high on the call list and as with any big event in the city we do see a spike in calls asking about car parking.

I really enjoy my job and get a lot of satisfaction from helping residents and visitors to the city. It's great to be able to make a difference to people's daily lives.

No two calls are the same and for a number of callers there is a real emotion attached to their call. For some it can be hard asking for help with things. Some elderly members of the community don't always want to ask for help for something they used to be able to do themselves. In situations like this it's important that we handle the call sensitively and support the caller.

Building up a good rapport with the caller is so important. The four weeks of training we get when we join C2C covers all aspects of the types of calls we will get and how to communicate with the caller.

C2C is now in its 12th year and has continued to provide residents and visitors with a one stop shop for advice and help with council services. I am very proud to work at C2C and would encourage residents to contact C2C if they have any queries or questions about Council services.

• You can contact Connect 2 Cardiff online, by phone, post or in person. C2C is open Monday to Friday from 8am until 7pm and Saturday 9am until 12.30pm. Telephone 029 2087 2087 or email C2C@cardiff.gov.uk For more information visit www.cardiff.gov.uk

Cardiff Council is urging people to make sure they are ready for the other changes that are planned under the Government's Welfare Reform Programme.

One of the most significant changes is the Under Occupation Rule or "Bedroom Tax" which will affect around 4,000 people across Cardiff.

The rule means that Council and Housing Association tenants with one or more spare rooms will have their housing benefit reduced. However, if the tenant or their partner is a pensioner, this rule does not apply.

Around 2,300 Cardiff Council tenants (around 18 per cent of all its tenants) and a further 1,800 Housing Association households will be affected by the Under Occupation Rule.

Many households, who currently think they haven't got a spare room because their children have a bedroom each, will have their housing benefit reduced.

• For more details about Welfare Reform visit the Council's website www.cardiff.gov.uk/Welfare Reform or call C2C on 029 2087 2087.

Welfare benefit reforms scrutinised

CARDIFF Council's Community and Adult Services Scrutiny Committee (CASSC), is taking the lead in examining the work being done by the Council and partners to mitigate the impact of the Welfare Benefit Reforms for citizens in Cardiff.

A special meeting, chaired by Councillor Ramesh Patel, is being organised in February to hear from council officers and organisations who are working with the Council. Members will look at the assistance, support and signposting that are being put in place to help residents affected by the Welfare Benefit Reforms.

Members will also be looking at work being carried out by other local authorities in England and Wales to prepare for the Welfare Benefit Reforms and seeing whether there are any good practice lessons that Cardiff can learn from these.

The recommendations following the scrutiny inquiry will be presented to the Council's Cabinet for consideration. Anyone wishing to contribute to the scrutiny or looking for more information should email scrutinyviewpoints@cardiff.gov.uk

• Madison Bettley (inset) and Jack and Vera, the ducks she named.

Quacking competition names Roath Park ducks

ROATH Park's Conservatory has recently welcomed two special residents and, thanks to a competition launched by Cardiff Council, they have now been named!

The pair of White Faced Whistling Ducks, aptly described because of their loud and high pitched call will now be known as Jack and Vera Duckworth.

From more than 100 entries, the successful names were suggested by two different people. Madison Bettley aged nine from Manchester, entered the competition after visiting Cardiff for the weekend with her sister and uncle.

Jack and Vera was also proposed by 69-year-old Carole Davies from Tremorfa. Both Madison and Carole will share the accolade.

Cabinet Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Councillor Huw Thomas said: "We had a great response from the public for the duck naming competition, which just shows the pride and interest Cardiff residents have in the park and its inhabitants.

"Jack and Vera Duckworth will replace the much-loved and sadly missed Wilfred the Whistling Duck who passed away in August 2010 at the grand old age of 19, making him one of the oldest ducks in Wales.

"Roath Park's Conservatory is a unique asset to Cardiff attracting thousands of visitors every year. I am sure Jack and Vera will attract plenty of people to the park and will fit into their new surroundings, to be enjoyed by further generations."

Jack and Vera were collected from a breeder in Gloucestershire and will not obtain their full adult plumage until the spring.

The species can be found in many parts of the world in tropical and subtropical regions usually near water, and the ducks enjoy the humid and warm conditions of the conservatory which is also home to many varieties of plants, as well as terrapins, stick insects and a large fish collection.

Surf's up at Cardiff International White Water

WORK is underway on the next phase of the new indoor surfing development at Cardiff International White Water (CIWW).

Cabinet Member for Sport, Culture and Leisure, Councillor Huw Thomas recently visited to see how work is progressing on the new facility.

The new surf machine is taking shape, with work having started on the new building which will house it.

CIWW is well-placed to host the high-adrenalin surf machine, having already won the Visit Wales 'Best Visitor Experience' award for enabling thousands of thrill-seekers to experience white water rafting, canoeing, kayaking and stand-up paddle boarding.

Councillor Thomas said: "Scheduled to open this spring the new machine will be an exciting new addition to the Cardiff International Sports Village development. The new simulator will be one of only a handful of facilities that offers a double-lane surfing experience, meaning groups can try out the facilities in pairs.

"Cardiff is already home to an array of sporting venues and attractions and the new surf machine is another string to the capitals sporting bow. The new surfing activity will provide an exciting day out in a safe and controlled environment, which can be enjoyed by everyone."

CIWW is an Olympic-standard white water course, offering a range of water sports from white water rafting to canoeing and kayaking. It also provides a variety of packages from birthday parties to team building days.

Biodiversity Corner

Biodiversity is all living things. It provides us with food, clothing, medicine, building materials and fuel. It helps reduce stress and aids relaxation. Each month Cardiff Council ecologist Laura Palmer will point out some of the great biodiversity you can see across the city.

FEBRUARY

THE STAR of any sunny February day has got to be the Dipper. This small (18cm) bird is perfectly adapted for its aquatic lifestyle and can be found on waterways all over Cardiff.

They get their name from the bobbing action they make while standing on rocks. Then they walk into the water to search for invertebrates to eat. If you watch one for a while you will see it blink showing the white eye-lid which protects the eyes when hunting submerged.

In February the males are busy singing to attract a mate. Their song is a sweet warble, often adding a melody to the rippling water.

Both parents make a domed nest from moss and leaves. The nest is usually within 1m of running water and they are particularly fond of bridges. Back in January Iolo's Great Welsh Parks (BBC 1 Wales) showed a male flying in and out of the nest site in the fish pass at Blackweir in Bute Park. This is the best place to look for Dippers in Cardiff.

I'll be back next month with more biodiversity attractions.

Campaigners celebrate Rumney Rec success

• (L to R) Mel Plenty, treasurer of RREEL, the Lord Mayor Derrick Morgan, Don Taylor, chairman of RREEL and Councillor Huw Thomas celebrate the dedication of Rumney Rec.

A SPECIAL ceremony has taken place at Rumney Recreation Ground to mark the local community's efforts to save it from development.

The successful fight to save Rumney Rec, as it is known locally, was taken on by the RREEL Action Group who opposed plans to build a new high school on the site.

The site has now become one of seven green spaces which are to be dedicated as Queen Elizabeth II Fields. The other sites are Llanishen Park, Moorland Park, Pontcanna Fields, Pontprennau Playing Fields, Roath Recreation Ground and land next to Hywel Dda School in Ely.

The Queen Elizabeth II Fields Challenge is a campaign being run by Fields in Trust (FIT), a charity dedicated to the protection of outdoor recreation space, and aims to protect hundreds of green spaces throughout the UK.

This initiative is seen as a celebration of the Queen's Diamond Jubilee and a legacy of the 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games.

Cardiff Council has drawn up Deeds of Dedication for each site which will ensure their protection in perpetuity.

Cabinet Member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Councillor Huw Thomas, attended the ceremony along with Lord Mayor of Cardiff, Councillor Derrick Morgan, who helped unveil the commemorative granite stone, bearing an inscription dedicated to the communities of East Cardiff.

Councillor Thomas said: "The battle to save Rumney Rec united the entire community, and I am delighted that this dedication finally protects the land forever. Cardiff has some of the finest parkland in Britain, and these dedications are a statement of intent of how this Council wants to preserve and promote these wonderful green spaces."

Get it out for charity

GET It Out for Cardiff concluded its 2012 campaign with the presentation of a £1540 cheque to the Lord Mayor, Councillor Derrick Morgan for his nominated charity Llamau.

The Lord Mayor was very impressed with this year's efforts and the excellent contribution made to Llamau. He said: "Get It Out for Cardiff has had an extraordinary year with more than £1500 raised, a record for the campaign."

"With an increased tonnage of reusable items collected and hugely successful kitchen sales at the various campuses around the city, the campaign has gone from strength to strength. I'm delighted such a brilliant charity as Llamau has benefitted from such a great year."

Llamau is the leading homelessness charity for the most vulnerable young people and women in Wales.

Cabinet Member for Environment, Councillor Ashley Govier added: "We are always looking to improve the scheme and this year we joined forces with the YMCA and this has been the best year yet with over 12 and a half tonnes of reuse items collected at halls of residence and the Students Union throughout the summer. The fact that Llamau has received £1540 as a result of a record year is the icing on the cake."

Broadband capacity - could yours be faster?

HOW fast is the broadband speed in your home? Is your business super-connected?

With many people starting the New Year with new tablets, smartphones and various other technological gadgets broadband speed is more important than ever?

The days of just one family desktop computer in each home are becoming less and less and people need their broadband to have the capacity to effectively cope with greater demands and the higher numbers of devices they own.

Internet TV, social networking, TV on-demand and businesses set up from home, all call for greater download and upload speed and capacity.

The Cardiff Super Connected Cities project will ensure that not only will today's demand for broadband provision is met, but also gives capacity for future growth, so people are ready for tomorrow's technologies today.

The project will ensure that the urban areas of Cardiff will have 100 per cent availability of Ultrafast (1Gb) broadband connections for business and 100Mbps broadband for homes.

By the end of 2012, more than 90,000 premises could access a Superfast broadband service – offering a headline speed of 30Mbit/s or higher.

Fifty-five per cent of premises are now passed by superfast broadband, either through Virgin Media's cable service or BT's Infinity product however, there remain gaps in service provision. The project will equalise this gap, ensuring access to a high level is available to all.

• For further information on the Super Connected Cardiff project and register your interest for future updates, go to www.DigitalCardiff.net

Lowri's poster is far from rubbish

ANOTHER excellent year for Cardiff's Really Rubbish campaign has concluded with the judging of the campaign's poster competition for primary schools.

The 'Love School - Hate Litter' competition focused on encouraging children not to drop litter in or around their schools and prompted a huge response.

Lowri Davies from St Bernadette's School in Pentwyn won the first prize, with Emma Salter from Ysgol y Wern grabbing second place and Molly Joan Sullivan from Bryn Hafod coming in third.

Cabinet member for environment, Councillor

Ashley Govier said: "I'm always struck by the knowledge and enthusiasm for recycling and keeping their environment clean that primary schoolchildren show. They impress me again and again and this poster competition was no exception with a very high standard shown. There had to be a winner and Lowri's poster was excellent but thank you and well done to everyone who entered."

After having many ideas for the poster, Lowri wisely thought her 'litter bug' theme would work best and thought winning the competition was "really cool". The winning poster will appear on bus stops throughout Cardiff and be sent to all primary schools for use in their anti-litter campaigns. It will also feature on the Really Rubbish and Cardiff council websites.

Joanne Dendle, Eco Coordinator for St Bernadette's said: "The Really Rubbish campaign has a high profile in St Bernadette's and the children are really keen. The children love being involved and these days they're really aware of everything, it's just normal to them, something you have to do. They've also done litter picking in the local area with Keep Wales Tidy. We had 40 entries to the competition and we hadn't told Lowri she'd won so it was great seeing the shock on her face!"

Councillor Govier added: "You can never be too young to learn that it is wrong to litter your environment as the Really Rubbish campaign continually shows.

These kids could teach adults a thing or two about keeping our city clean and it's brilliant to see such commitment to a great cause at such an early age."

Spotlight on the suburbs

The latest in a series of articles looking at the changing face of the suburbs in Cardiff. This month Capital Times looks at how the work in Butetown is benefiting the local community in more ways than one.

A MAJOR revamp of the Christina Street area in Butetown is providing local employment opportunities as well as helping to transform the local area.

The project is part of the Butetown regeneration programme funded by the European Regional Development Fund, the Welsh Government and Cardiff Council.

The improvements at Christina Street include new pedestrian and parking layouts, better lighting, new garden walls and boundaries, tree planting and landscaping.

The principal contractor appointed by the Council to undertake the scheme is civil engineering company, Alun Griffiths Ltd. As part of their winning tender bid, Alun Griffiths proposed a community benefits package which included training and employment opportunities.

Working in partnership with Cardiff and Vale College, who run a range of construction skills training courses from their Cardiff Construction Training Centre, Alun Griffiths has implemented a work experience programme for students studying Bricklaying Level 3.

And six students have been provided with work experience

• Councillor Lynda Thorne with student Keiron Ellis and project manager Danny McGee in bricklaying on the Christina Street project.

Kevin Robinson, Campus Manager, said it has been a great opportunity for students to get practical experience on a 'live' construction.

"The students have found that the on-site experience complements the training in the classroom. It has improved their confidence but also helped them to develop the speed of their bricklaying. It has been a positive experience, with the students being more focussed and more motivated on returning from the placement," he said.

For one student, Kieron Ellis, his placement at Christina Street has led to a longer-term role with Alun Griffiths on a construction site in Bridgend. Kieron will work three days a week whilst he completes the final year of his studies.

Gail Jones, Community Liaison Officer for Alun Griffiths Ltd, said: "As a company, we are committed to provide community benefits on all our major contracts. Having the opportunity to link up with local training provider, Cardiff and Vale College, has allowed us to offer practical work placements which will help deliver a skilled workforce for the future."

Cabinet Member for Communities, Housing and Social Justice, Councillor Lynda Thorne said: "Our administration is committed to maximising training and employment opportunities for the people of Cardiff. Christina Street is a practical example of how our regeneration programmes are delivering on this commitment. I am pleased that Alun Griffiths has provided these work experience placements. Such opportunities can be an essential first step for young people looking for secure employment in a skilled occupation."

Cardiff gears up for St David's Day

SHOW your patriotic spirit on March 1st and support St David's Day.

Cardiff will once again be celebrating in style with the 10th National St David's Day Parade, featuring the popular Giants of Wales figures.

This will leave City Hall at 12.30pm and work its way through the city centre to begin a week of fun and colourful celebrations.

Local schools and youth groups will come together with performers to travel throughout the city in a spectacularly colourful display of patriotism.

There will be something for everyone, with the St David's Day market, music, dancing, national costumes, sculptures and a real carnival atmosphere.

So if you work in the city centre, why not come and see the parade during your lunch break? Or if you are at home, bring your little ones along to enjoy the family fun.

Cabinet member for Sport, Leisure and Culture, Councillor Huw Thomas, said: "The St David's Day parade is always great fun and a popular way to celebrate our national day. This year there will be plenty of activities taking place in Cardiff city centre and I encourage everyone to come along and enjoy the celebrations."

A G Meek, Cardiff's long standing family shoe business has celebrated its centenary.

In 1912, Albert George Meek opened his first shoe store at 97 Albany Road. Three generations on, his grandson David Meek, supported by members of the family are still running the business.

The story of A G Meek is one of a family business and high street independent retailer. In the 1960s, the business grew rapidly as David Meek recalls.

"In the 1920s, my grandfather expanded the business and had a shop at 2 Duke Street, opposite the Castle. Shops in Newport, Swansea and Bristol soon followed.

"In the 1960s we extended 2 Duke Street by acquiring 3 and 4 Duke Street. The shop was a department store on three floors and in the basement there was a shoe repair bar.

"My uncle Kenneth took over the business when my grandfather's health deteriorated. He with my father branched out into accessories – shoes, bags and gloves – all matching and in a huge range of colours from black and navy to orange and turquoise.

"In the 1940s and 1950s, there hadn't been much colour, so this was new and very fashionable. It was probably the first business to offer colour in shoes and accessories at prices people could afford."

The business still trades from shops in St David's Cardiff, Newport and Gloucester.

In order to mark its 100th anniversary, The Cardiff Story would like to acquire an item for its collection representing the story of this unique family shoe business.

Do any readers still have matching A G Meek shoes, bag and gloves, in a bright colour from the 1960's? Do you have any memories of buying your shoes at A G Meek? Can you still recall the famous A G Meek television jingle: 'The matchings unique at A G Meek'?

If so, then please contact the Cardiff Story team on 029 2078 8334 or email cardiffstory@cardiff.gov.uk

The Road to Rio

AN OLYMPICS Legacy Programme is launching this month.

Road To Rio will introduce young people aged from eight to 19 to an active and healthier lifestyle through sports, food and nutrition and cultural activities.

Weekly sessions will take place from February half term at venues across Cardiff including schools, parks, streets, leisure facilities, play centres, youth centres, the Storey Arms centre, health facilities and open spaces.

Young people can join the journey on the Road to Rio and participate in Zumba, Salsa and Capoeira as well as learning about the benefits of eating tropical fruits, bananas, coconut, guava, lime, passion fruit and pineapple.

A wide range of activities will be available. These include:

- Skills for life where young people can learn skills they can use throughout their lives, like healthy eating, walking, multi-sports, bowls, boccia, nordic walking, swimming, dance, bike riding

- Classic sports including popular sporting activities such as football, baseball, hockey, cycling, snorkelling, athletics, netball, and gymnastics will also be available to try.

- Urban and extreme sports for youngsters seeking an adrenalin rush. This will include free running, boppers, skateboarding, BMX, rock climbing, scuba diving and track cycling.

Young people will benefit from the Olympics Legacy Programme as it will give them the opportunity to get physically active, learn about food and nutrition, gain sport qualifications and have access to multi skills training and equipment.

- If you know someone aged eight and 19 who would enjoy taking part in the Road to Rio project, or to find a full list of activities available, check the Road to Rio web page www.cardiff.gov.uk/leisure

Cardiff sees in the New Year in style

Photographs by Mark White

'Platinum' – the UK's leading Abba tribute band - made sure the Calennig celebrations were a fantastic success.

Thousands of people converged on the heart of Cardiff's civic centre on New Years Eve to enjoy a whole host of free live entertainment, Real Radio's Jason Harrold counted down to the New Year with the evening ending in a spectacular firework display.

Flooding project underway

CARDIFF Council is embarking on a project to protect Rhiwbina from the flooding that has hit the area ten times in the last 20 years.

The scheme is being funded by the European Regional Development Fund, Welsh Government and Cardiff Council with construction works scheduled to start this summer.

Residents will have the opportunity to view an exhibition of the flood defence proposals at All Saints Church, Rhiwbina on Friday, February 15 from 11am to 7pm and Rhiwbina Baptist Church on Saturday, February 16 from 11am and 5pm.

Executive Member for Environment, Councillor Ashley Govier welcomed the start of this important project.

He said: "Rhiwbina has three watercourses running through the area and these have become increasingly prone to flooding with the most recent and significant occurrence being in June 2009. With residential and commercial properties affected it was clear action needed to be taken to help protect these properties and improve the quality of life in this area for residents and businesses alike.

"We want the public to work with us on this important flood defence programme that will greatly improve local resilience to the type of flood events that have afflicted this popular area of Cardiff in recent years. This administration is committed to maximising the protection for residents against flooding and will shortly be releasing a flood strategy for consultation that identifies and deals with the risks events such as those that have affected Rhiwbina in recent times."

He added: "I urge all local residents to drop into the exhibitions as it is a key part of this administration's vision to improve the quality of residents' local environment and this scheme will deliver significant improvements to the Rhiwbina area."
